RFK Jr. Launches Presidential Campaign, Vows to Reduce Chronic Disease in Children

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. on Wednesday officially launched his campaign for the Democratic nomination for president, telling an overflow crowd in Boston that if he has not "significantly dropped the level of chronic disease in our children by the end of my first term, I do not want you to reelect me."

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. on Wednesday officially launched his campaign for the Democratic nomination for president, telling an overflow crowd in Boston that if he has not "significantly dropped the level of chronic disease in our children by the end of my first term, I do not want you to reelect me."

Kennedy, Children's Health Defense founder and chairman on leave, spoke for nearly two hours and covered a wide range of issues — everything from his family's history in American politics, to the military-industrial complex, to widespread censorship and to the attacks on civil liberties, the environment and public health.

Throughout his speech, Kennedy frequently referred to how all of these issues directly affect children.

He reminded the audience of the obligation America's leaders have to protect children — from toxic pesticides, from dangerous pharmaceuticals and from the "corrupt merger of state and corporate power" that robs future generations of their health and of their ability to achieve financial security.

Kennedy, who has a long and successful career as an environmental attorney, decried the attack on the environment by corporate polluters. He told the crowd:

> "If we want to meet our obligation as a generation, as a civilization, as a nation, which is to create communities for our children that provide them with the same opportunities for dignity and enrichment and prosperity and good health as the communities that our parents gave us, we've got to start by protecting our environmental infrastructure.
> "If we want to measure our economy … we ought to be measuring it based upon how it produces jobs and the dignity of jobs over the generations, and how it preserves the value of the assets of our community."

He also had harsh words for the pandemic lockdown policies, which he said were "a war on American children," citing a Brown University study that found toddlers lost 22 IQ points.

"Children all over the country have missed their milestones" because of the lockdowns, Kennedy said, adding:

> "What is the CDC's response? The CDC five months ago revised its milestones so that now a child no longer is expected to walk at 1 year … they walk at 18 months. And a child now does not have to have 50 words in 24 months, it's 30 months. So instead of fixing the problem, they are trying to cover it up."

Kennedy called out the failure of public health officials and the U.S. healthcare system to address the epidemic of chronic disease in the U.S., especially among children.

"We have the sickest children on earth in this country," he said, rattling off a list of chronic diseases affecting children that includes obesity, ADHD [attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder] allergies, neurological and neurodevelopment issues — and autism, which according to the latest statistics, now affects 1 in 36 children in the U.S.

Kennedy dismissed claims that the rise in autism rates can be attributed to improved diagnostics.

"What regulators will say is, oh, well, we just started noticing it for the first time," he said. "Missing autism is like missing a train wreck. So it's absurd, but more importantly, there is study after study after study that shows … this epidemic is real."

One of the key themes of Kennedy's campaign and his speech is his ambition to heal the deep divisions that plague the country today.

"And I'm going to try to do that by encouraging people to talk about the values that we have in common, rather than the issues that keep us apart," he said. "And I'm going to do that by telling the truth to the American people because that is the core — that is the core of this division."

I fervently hope he can get his message out to the American people. Maybe then they could see that there is a better world possible, a healthier world. The corrupt media will try to censor and marginalize him, but he's a very smart man and will use all the opportunities available to him.
Go Bobby!

What an excellent speech! Most inspiring and such a rousing ending! I was attentive throughout; not bored nor agitated for one moment. Gosh, how much our country needs leaders, especially the nation's president, that can inspire and give us hope that U.S. industries will become morally and environmentally clean, that we return to being a healthy, intelligent and beautifully, not debased, creative population in academia, advertising and the arts (my hope, that was not specifically addressed), and a free, not censored and oppressed, country that we can be proud of once again as you have here President Kennedy. Can't help myself, it was that good!

I'm a Canadian, but pleased to know that Kennedy is running for this important office. I've followed his work for decades as an educator, parent and grandparent.
Regarding kids with autism, I started teaching in 1960. Believe me, kids with autism would have been visible to we educators. Don't ever let anyone suggest to me that we just got better at diagnosis. Just not true.

Just do not expect him to restart Keystone XL pipeline project, that was closed by Biden. 😉

Really? If you have to ask, chances are the truth will be lost on you.
Answer:
Because it would be destructive to our ecosystems, drinking water sources, the climate, public health. the environment and Mother Earth. THAT'S why.

"The takedown of the notorious Keystone XL (KXL) tar sands pipeline will go down as one of this generation's most momentous environmental victories. After more than 10 years of tenacious protests, drawn-out legal battles, and flip-flopping executive orders spanning three presidential administrations, the Keystone XL pipeline is now gone for good. I already know I won't agree w/him on everything, but he's got my vote. He is a man of ethics, morals, character, and integrity, which is totally absent from 99% of politicians today. ANY Democrat that could vote for anyone else in a Democratic primary after hearing his message is part of the Democratic party that has lost all principles they once stood for long ago. BTW, I'm an Independent.

Robert spoke about the War on the poor&the middle class and about the covidian "rules"that were counter to maintaining health-citing examples such as counties pulling basketball hoops from parks in poor neighborhoods..school shutdowns..churches,3 million independent businesses including fitness centers of which over 40% Never bounced back&couldnt sustain economically-by the mandated shutdown..(all of which..justified by a fraud science- denying outlets for exercise..religious gatherings&support..all of which were tearing down communities (This was tyranny&terrorism-defined as using unlawful force by public servants&for commercial gain-as tge medical tyranny was.)Robert also spoke of the horrific fact that 54% of America's Children have Chronic Illness&referred to some of the causal links..which he 'vowed' to change..he spoke of the deep corruption of the CIA..& defined..how its not the average underling ..of the CIA..yet a hierarchy of criminal power..and also mentioned the Military Industrial Complex which Eisenhower&his uncle warned of.And unlike any other presidential candidate...since his uncle&father.And..in other words..Robert said- we must uphold our Constitution&restore our human rights&what has been lost.Robert's speech simply reflected the things he's worked&battled in changing for many yrs.It was Great.

I hope Robert F. Kennedy Jr. is willing to define what a woman is.

I am in support of his decision to run, a bit disappointed that it is on the Democratic ticket.
I will not vote for a candidate who does not address
- CHILD SAFETY: the medical experimentation with puberty blockers on children, which is causing sterilization, bones, organs, brains not to grow, and a child to become a lifelong medical patient. I hope he makes it illegal for a girl to have her healthy breasts removed before she is at least 21.
- WOMEN'S RIGHTS being erased by "gender language and laws"
These are bottom line issues to get me to the voting polls.

Agree.
A woman is someone born with a vagina.
A man is someone born with a penis and testicles.
Exception: some people are born with both genitalia. These are known as hermaphrodites.

It's pretty simple.

Absolutely! There is a deliberate effort to conflate biology (sex) with psychology (gender identity)--one more example of the ruling class trying to keep us divided.
As the French say, "viva la difference."

I really hope that the cause of this gender identity crisis is brought to light. All the endocrine disrupting toxins/chemicals/poisons, along with boat loads of stress are at the root of it. What we do to Nature we do to ourselves, and gender identity issues are everywhere in the Natural World. We have simply gone too far! Poisoned the watering hole.

Theresa Mitchel who has a KBOO radio show in Portland Oregon, came out to say that her gender identity, born a man but identifies as a woman, can be directly linked to the synthetic estrogen morning sickness pills given to her mother during pregnancy! Pharmaceuticals are regulated on the front side to not mix drugs together that could harm you, but no regulation exists for all the unmetabolized drugs that go down the drain and mix all together in our rivers and drinking water! Where was the environmental impact statement on that crazy?

Right or Left or in the Middle, this needs to come to light! We are all contributing to our children's chronic health issues! We need to put the blame where it belongs, and that isn't on the individual who has been harmed.

We attended the campaign event in Boston yesterday, it was electrifying with all the doctors, scientists, therapists and other family & supporters that we saw and spoke with around us, and RFK's speech invoked a range of emotions, from elation and hope to shock and tears (the story of a 14 year old RFK, Jr riding the train with his father's coffin was a memory Bobby shared). There was a huge presence of media; The Boston Globe, New York Times and CNN interviewed lots of us on the ends of the aisles trying to find chinks in the supportive armor. Today, the Globe did another Groundhog-Day-type hit piece, which is strange for a democratic, left leaning local newspaper that used to report fair and informative news, but no more. So far, the only local paper I've seen that gave a balanced journalistic report was the Boston Herald, which historically has been a right-leaning paper. Read a true account of what happened at the Boston Herald website and support them please. #kennedy2024

RFK Jr has more integrity in his little finger than the entirety of the Democratic Party. But let's be realistic. Bernie Sanders who is far less progressive (I'm using that word in the true sense) was mugged twice by his own party and has happily accepted his role as a sheep dog for life. RFK Jr is not that type of man which is precisely why the Democratic Party considers him to be anathema. They and their corporate masters loathe anything that shines a bright light on their venal deceit. This may sound insane or perverse to some but RFK Jr would possibly have a better chance running as a Republican with DeSantis as his running mate. The Republican "base" is highly fluid and RFK has the type of message and appeal that can even win over the MAGA hardcore. A majority of the so called progressives and liberals have shown themselves to be apathetic to foreign wars and were the ignorant enablers of the Covid 1984 nightmare that still resonates to this day. I don't hold much hope for this run but that I don't want to believe it's just that I've never seen a political miracle. Perhaps this will be the first one

If I may, and I know this will seem self promotional. It is not. This oil painting of mine was published on another presidential candidate's campaign poster. I personally handed it to the candidate, his Vice President and his Secretary of Interior. More than that, how much I hope it represents where this country is headed once Robert F. Kennedy Jr. is elected President of the United States. Art has a place, a powerful place, in our nation's history, its present and future state.

So beautiful Leslie. I wish I could paint as well as you.

The arts have become a lost art...no pun intended. I visited my middle school a few years ago and the first two memories I had were my art class and my music class. I learned to draw and paint and play the guitar when I was 13 and through my life it's become obvious how those significantly impacted my personal development and how I viewed the world and valued nature. In college I studied art history and photography classes with real cameras! I still paint a bit and attend a local wine and paint class every month at a local gallery for fun. I was influenced by my liberal arts/renaissance family that believed everyone should study science and art. Both of my maternal grandparents were artists that painted and sculpted as a hobby. Of all the things I could have inherited, I just wanted their art and I made sure I got every piece. My great great grandfather, a publisher in Vermont, studied sculpting under Larkin Meade and assisted Meade in the creation of the Lincoln Tomb and several busts, one of which I have.

I recently watched an interview with Elon Musk and Tucker Carlson. Tucker asked Elon if AI had a soul and if it could appreciate the beauty in the world. Elon replied by telling Tucker that AI can create beautiful art. My heart stopped, my stomach hit the floor. I imagined going to a gallery of artificial art devoid of any soul. Depressing! I think you should paint the green tree and singing bird :D

Musk's miscreations are depressing in all matters of importance to humanity, to human life and the very soul of humankind. Terrifying actually. Yet, for over a decade now art has been made with computer programs and you cannot tell the difference between an actual work of art done by an artist or with a computer program. The work can even show texture, as in thick paint, and be reproduced on a canvas or any paper. It is soulless, one can sense that. Along the lines of ancestry, I inherited my talent from my father and grandfather (never had to take a single class), though quite different, like one can inherit political aptitude and clout. I would like to see the Kennedy familial political legacy, and MLK, set right, reconciled with RFK Jr. leading the nation; flying high, strong and proudly once again. LIFE! Your mental image of a green tree and singing bird does inspire me a bit. I'm now painting three small oil sketches featuring birds , "Grace Alights", Metamorphosis", and "Three, the Perfect Number".

While I listened to Kennedy's speech, I was transformed to the past when leaders were ladies and gentlemen, displayed sincerity and respect for their purpose. I'm so fed up living in this state of constant competition, opposition and narcissism. This is just so juvenile and negative. I was thinking about starting a prayer day and time for all of us on this site (as a start). I don't like the word that way but I do believe that if we would all put our minds in a prayer state all at once, we could change the energy in this world with a ripple effect. What do you think?

Beatrice, I experience miracles regularly, not generally large (though they're beyond measurement). I am terrorized, gangstalked, and have been for years and it's miracles that have saved me more than once. I'm not sure why they don't just kill me, though it's come very close more than once and recently so having found a loaded and cocked gun in my home. And yes, I've been through the police and legal fiasco (which did help a bit). Another concern is that I do not receive most emails. I have a website [link below] and many visitors go to the "contact the artist and author" page and yet, other than but one day, I never receive emails from visitors to my site, not even in proton mail. The isolation from this organized meanness (there's so much meanness now viciously harming so many, children not excluded) led me to study miracles and create the site. My in-depth studies have led to some conclusions about synchronicities, miraculous incidents (particularly saving and healing), precognitive dreams, etc. Beatrice, for us to be effective, I believe that first of all, we need to see ourselves

Jann, That's a wonderful idea. This isn't as easy as I had thought it would be and I wasn't sure how to handle the time zones. I'm going to need some help with this so please keep the ideas coming. Every day? Once a week? We can't please everyone and we shouldn't have to. It's up to everyone to make the commitment to pray because we need to show G-d that we are willing to make the sacrifices necessary to heal this world and the way of receiving his guidance. I pray every Friday at sunset (I use a calendar to know the time) but I'm requesting that we make this prayer not alone-but together because together is power. Maybe more people will add their suggestions and then we will choose the majority.

I am sorry to inform you people that this man is yet another plant among us of the elite, which run the show. I have observed for many decades the play before us, and observed this Kennedy. When you children wake up you may see also. The only reason this man is alive and able to broadcast such is because he is part of the elite, just giving us a show. And he is amiss on the most pertinent issues which are the REAL problem. For example, for all his work on doing something about autism, he never mentions the vaccines being the cause. And he says nothing about the covid vaccine. And that tidbit is just a sample of how he is not on our side. Like all those in the government, which are all appointed, he never really addresses the real culprits, and does not offer an iota of a real solution. He is raging on his ego, and/or a reptilian alien plant among us, like the previous lineages of families in power, who are right there people in our faces. Wake the hell up.

He is spot on about Trump's responsibility for the Covid lock downs and the disaster the bureaucrats in the many captured agencies pushed on our nation. Trump made it clear many times during early 2020 that he wasn't really agreeing with these people but he allowed it anyways. Because of that many people died, lost businesses, caused suicides, abuse in children, and completely RUINED THE USA economically - make no mistake the only reason we're still afloat is because we still have the Reserve Currency in the world - Which he also talks about.

He was hand in glove with Pfizer - which went against his "cleaning the swamp" promise. Listen To RFKjr talk about this part in the speech if you haven't.

And at this point who cares who you voted for in the past - everyone was voting for a monster on either side of the isle.

Republicans tend to smear democrats for their stances on abortion, but think nothing about all the children murdered by our bombs.

Watched his speech & was quite impressed...of course, I've been a fan for several years, so why not be impressed, right? With his family history & his work history & ethics, I feel no one can come close to his impeccable qualifications to be our next President. One downside...I do fear for his life, considering what happened to his father & his uncle.
